"High Heat" by Richard Castle

With the return of Nikki Heat and Jameson Rook, Castle seeks to extend his book series past the ill-fated conclusion of his popular television program. With a presidential election only a few months away, New York is abuzz with candidate visits and fundraisers. However, it is the release of a video by a rogue ISIS group that has the NYPD buzzing. A young woman is beheaded and Jameson Rook is called out as the group's next victim. Captain Nikki Heat is in a panic, both to find out who is behind this heinous act and to locate her husband, whose life is obviously in danger. Castle delivers a strong story, with a bit of off-hand and silly humour for which his character was so well known on screen. An interesting read for series fans and curious mystery readers alike.

"Miramar Bay" by Davis Bunn

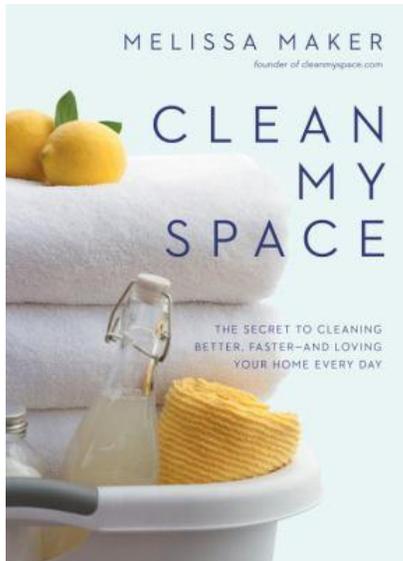

Miramar Bay is a seaside resort on the coast of California where many people go to escape the stress of everyday life and search for their dreams. Conner Larkin takes a break from his Hollywood life and finds this charming town to hide out in. He quickly becomes involved in the lives of the residents, while keeping the secret of who he really is. We all yearn for a place where we can get away from the hubbub of our daily lives and escape to an idyllic place where dreams become reality.

“Solve for Happy: Engineer your Path to Joy “ by Mo Gawdat

This book offers a honest, personal, logical and scientific yet simple and easily digestible story of what life REALLY is. Even if you're not a much of a reader or if you're not into this whole 'self help' topic. After much research and mathematical analysis, he concluded that yes, there is a formula to being happy, which he tried on himself and hundreds of his friends to great success. Even after his beloved son died tragically, Mo was able to experience moments of happiness throughout the intense grieving process by applying this equation. His goal now? To help ten million people achieve a happy state.
