"Bridget Jones's Baby: The Diaries" by Helen Fielding

Who doesn't love Bridget Jones? She is one of those characters that has endeared herself to readers because we can all see traces of ourselves in her. And then there are the film adaptations which have made her a global icon of sorts! Before motherhood, before marriage, Bridget, with biological clock ticking very, very loudly, finds herself unexpectedly pregnant at the eleventh hour: a joyful pregnancy which is dominated, however, by a crucial but terribly awkward question – who is the father? Mark Darcy - honourable, decent, notable human rights lawyer? Or Daniel Cleaver - charming, witty and incredibly handsome?

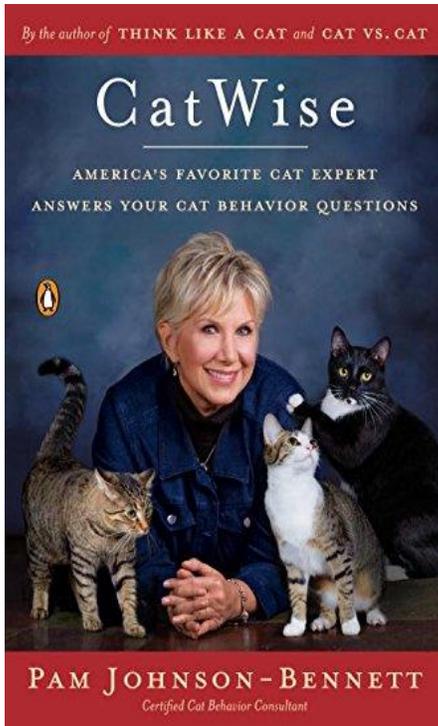

"The Emerald Lie: A Jack Taylor Novel" by Ken Bruen

The Jack Taylor series is one of the most original and creative series being written today. The language is coarse, raw, sarcastic and cynical. Jack Taylor, exgarda, has lost everyone close to him, either through death or their disillusionment of the broken down man he has become. Yet he has a strong streak of loyalty, of justice and once he sees something wrong he is unable to let it go. Contrary to all reason, Jack Taylor continues to limp around the sodden streets of Galway with his pet dog, trailing a vaporous fog of Jameson, in this 12th installment of Bruen's most popular series. Taylor continues to find himself in all manner of misadventures, in this instance including a serial killer whose fuse is lit by bad grammar. As ever, Bruen continues to delight with black humor and a prose style as effervescent as the bubbles in a freshly poured Guinness.

“Cat Wise: America’s Favorite Cat Expert Answers Your Cat Behavior Questions” by Pam Johnson-Bennett

CatWise answers your questions from training your kitten with Boot Camp Basics, to Litter Box Etiquette (in a chapter called Stinking Outside the Box), to Animal House – keeping peace when its reigning cats and dogs, to Old Friends, making the most of their golden years. This book would be the purrrfect gift for a newbie cat owner, but also for someone who has had a number of cats throughout their lifetime. There is always that little tidbit of information that someone else can pass along that at times can prove to be a lifesaver. Cats have a mind of their own and always prove to be mischievous but also when they want - search out some loving attention. No one will ever fully understand the complexity of these furry felines but this book gives us an insight into the minds of these complex creatures that we cannot survive without.

“Master Your Time Master Your Life: The Breakthrough System to Get More Results, Faster, In Every Area of Your Life” by Brian Tracy

In Master Your Time Master Your Life, Tracy explains why tackling the right project at the right time is of the utmost importance. Based on the most recent research into the field of productivity, as well as the author's personal experiences and those of his clients, Tracy argues that we may be stuck on something because of one simple thing—the timing isn't right.

Tracy suggests that we discipline ourselves to do only those tasks that enrich and enhance our life and move us toward the person we want to be. If you are ready to be inspired to move in that direction, you'll like this book.
